The commerce of XM-Radio should not be regulated by NAB's petition because it limits my liberties as an American citizen. It seems truly unpatriotic and against the tenets of an open economy to allow monoliths like Clear Channel to control the airways while the entrepreneurial spirit of the American business man is left to wither away. One cannot punish XM Radio for establishing itself and creating an equitable commodity. Let the open market reign and let the American consumer choose. I look forward to more localized service from XM in the future and I can only hope that politics and lobbyist money do not usurp my rights.
